4-H Leaders And Project Champions Are Recognized

Mrs. G. C. Crenshaw Is Presented Tray For Being Selected As The Outstanding 4-H Leader

Seventeen 4-H leaders and nine 4-H project champions were honored at a recognition luncheon Saturday at the Princeton Hotel, the extension office announces.

Mrs. G. C. Crenshaw was presented a tray for being selected as the outstanding 4-H Club leader in Caldwell county in 1952. The presentation was made by Sam Steger, of the Steger Lumber Company, sponsor of the luncheon.

Other leaders present and recognized for outstanding 4-H Club work in 1952 were Mrs. Earl Wood, Mrs. Guy Shulders, Mrs. F. E. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Z. D. O'Fange, Mr. and Mrs. Rosey Roberts, Miss Pearl Hartigan, Raymond Stroube, G. C. Crenshaw, Maxwell Morgan, Clifton Clift, Clinton Jackson, James R. Wallace, Edwin Lamb and George Pettit.

Project champions present were Joyce Wood, Ella Mae Massey, Cynthia Ashby, Ida Lou Lamb, Bobby Williams, Bettie Jones Wallace and Mary Hazzard.

Mr. Steger welcomed the guests and said that the supporting of 4-H club work was one way of assuring better farming in the future. David Crenshaw, vice-president of the county's 4-H clubs, expressed thanks for the support received by local businessmen.

Also at the meeting, Mrs. Crenshaw told the group what 4-H work has meant to her and her community.

Commendation Ribbon Given Sgt. Young For Meritorious Service

Sgt. Francis Young, son of Mrs. Charles Young, 921 West Main street, Princeton, has been awarded the Army Commendation Ribbon for meritorious service in Korea.

The decoration was presented at a formal ceremony near the front lines.

Young was cited for his work as motor sergeant for the 2nd Battalion of the 2nd Infantry Division's 38th Regiment.

A former pupil of Butler High School, he also has been awarded the Combat Infantryman Badge, UN Service Ribbon and the Korean Service Ribbon.

Crittenden County Edges Fredonia Squad

Crittenden County trailed until the fourth period but managed to take a two-point lead in the final seconds to beat Fredonia's Yellow Jackets 51-49 at Francis Friday night.

"Suky" Brasher, Crittenden's mighty forward, scorched the nets for 32 points to outdistance all other players in putting the ball through the hoop. Tosh led the Yellow Jackets with 14 points.

Butler High Defeats Sinking Fork 43-41

Ronnie Ladd threw in a field goal with only seconds remaining to give the Princeton High School basketball team a 43 to 41 victory over Sinking Fork at the Fredonia gymnasium Friday night.

Coach John Hackett's club went into an 18 to 7 lead at the end of first quarter and increased the lead to 27 to 17 at halftime. Sinking Fork narrowed the margin to 31 to 30 at the end of third canto and the game was a nip and tuck affair thereafter.

Troy Wilhelm and Ladd led their team's scoring with 15 and 13 points respectively. Sinking Fork's scoring was led by their brilliant center, White, with 18 points.

Fredonian Is Held To Caldwell Grand Jury
On Shooting Charge

Oscar Scarberry, 69, of Fredonia, is being held to the Caldwell grand jury under $1,000 bond on a charge of shooting Kermit Lowry, about 35, in the groin at 5 a. m. Sunday at Scarberry's home.

Scarberry said he shot Lowry accidentally in a scuffle over a .32 caliber revolver. Lowry is in a Nashville hospital and is reported to be in a serious condition.

The State Police reported that when they went to the Scarberry house shortly after the shooting, they found Scarberry accompanied by Edna Harris, 24-years-old. Both were under the influence of alcohol, it was said.

Police quoted Scarberry as saying that he and the Harris girl put Lowry into a car after the shooting and brought the wounded man to the Caldwell County War Memorial Hospital for treatment. Then, Scarberry said he and the girl returned to his home without telling anybody at Fredonia about the shooting.

INJURED IN FALL
Mrs. J. R. Parsley, Sr., suffered several broken ribs and bruises when she fell at her home on Franklin street Tuesday, December 9.

One For The Road

This is the Christmas season when many of us get into our automobiles to visit friends close by or relatives far away. And a Louisville Times editorial, One For The Road, is something we all should read and think about at this time of parties and visiting.

One For The Road! This is a convivial expression of ancient vintage. We have not traced its history, but we imagine it goes as far back as another little drink won't do us any harm. That is a sentiment, sometimes misleading, which, in one form or another, dates from the invention of malt, vinous and spirituous liquors.

One for the road obviously originated as a variant of stirrup cup. A stirrup cup was a slug with which a man prudently fortified himself when departing on a journey by horseback. The point is that one for the road has been handed down from a time when the horse was the key to the personal transportation problem.

One for the road was reasonably safe in those days. Men still living can remember when it was not uncommon to see a festive citizen sprawled in his buggy in fragrant oblivion, yet being hauled unerringly homeward by a faithful nag in the moonlit night. He had had one too many for the road. Yet except when he fell out of the buggy and broke his fool neck, he reached his destination without peril to himself, or other travelers.

One for the road has absolutely no place in the era of the gasoline buggy. It survives as a dangerous and perverse anachronism. An automobile has lots of horsepower but not a grain of horse sense. Old Dobbin may have known the way discreetly home, or to the livery stable if the rig was rented. An automobile lacks these kindly and convenient intuitions. However, it possesses destructive powers that Old Dobbin never dreamed of even when a colt, wild and free.

We take this roundabout way of calling attention to a suggestion offered by the National Safety Council. This is that hosts and hostesses at holiday parties speed the parting guest not with one for the road but with hot coffee. Some churl may complain: "But coffee always keeps me awake." There are circumstances, brother, in which coffee may keep you alive.

Workers In Peonage

"The greatest objection to the union shop is that it puts workers, if not in slavery, at least in peonage," says the Los Angeles Times editorially. "They must obey the union officers in all things or lose their jobs. And they have no effective means of protest. Men who can quit a union any time they want to must be catered to by the union officers. Men who must pay dues or starve are at the mercy of petty dictators."

There is no argument over whether labor has or hasn't the right to organize. That right is and has long been as solidly established as any we enjoy—both in law, and in the thinking of the American people. The days of union-busting and yellow-dog contracts and the blackball are as dead as the Pharaohs. If a good union can offer so many inducements that 100 per cent of the workers in a plant join up and pay dues on a purely free and voluntary basis, more power to it.

The sole question is whether membership in a union shall be compulsory—whether a man can't take or hold a job and support his family without joining. That is the case with both the closed shop and the union shop—the latter is different in detail but the same thing in principle. In other words, it is a question of whether a few unions shall hold a monopoly on labor.

Long ago the American people demanded and received laws which broke the industrial and financial monopolies which had been formed in this country. The labor monopoly is every bit as bad, every bit as dangerous, every bit as antipathetic to our principles and traditions. And no one has a greater interest in breaking it than the working man himself.

Slashing The Budget

Announcement of Representative Taber of New York, after a conference at President-elect Dwight Eisenhower's headquarters, that efforts will be made by the new Administration to cut the Federal budget to 65 billion dollars is welcome news. The budget for the current fiscal year is $79 billion and it is indicated that the budget being prepared under the present Administration to be submitted to Congress in January will call for a figure even higher.

Taber, who is known as the "watchdog" of federal spending, said that the cut of $15 billions can be made by reduction in military and mutual security outlays and by a reduction of waste in government.

If the reduction is made it will balance the budget and perhaps will be on the way toward bringing a slight reduction in taxes. Possibly this is too much to hope for but there has certainly been no cheering news in years.

The squawk that will start in Washington when the agencies' appropriations start getting cut will probably be heard from one end of Pennsylvania Avenue to the other. Federal spending has gained such a momentum in the past several years that it will be a hard job to start it rolling backward. But if the coming Administration has the will and determination to do it, it's possible.

—(The Kentucky Standard)

For A Short Ballot

An amendment to the Constitution of Kentucky will be submitted at "an election" which in Kentucky means an election of state officials or legislators. The amendment proposed would provide for election of only four state officials, the governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and auditor. Statewide primaries often result in a falling off in the vote in the races for the so-called minor offices which in reality are of the highest importance. Possibly an attorney general should be more directly responsible to a governor than any other, because the governor must act upon his advice in every official step. It was not deemed likely, however, that the people of Kentucky who still cling to many of the convictions that resulted in the restrictions of the present Constitution would sacrifice the right to elect an attorney general.

Very often, as things now stand, a governor may almost have a deciding voice in the selection of a future cabinet in that as a candidate usually a slate is made up and very often those who support the winning candidate for the gubernatorial nomination are selected to that ticket.

Not only does this not always happen, however, but very frequently it may result that the most active opponent of policies of a candidate for the governorship might be elected on the slate with him. This often helps to win votes in November but sometimes makes the road rather rocky for the administration after it takes office.

Actually, however, the proposal is based not so much on political considerations as in the interest of streamlining the government and bringing unity and efficiency into its operation.

The chief difficulty now faced is that the amendment submitted would repeal some seven sections of the present Constitution. So is this one amendment actually one or seven?

We seldom question the men of science on their forecasts for the future development of scientific wonders. We do, however, express our unbelief that there is a possibility that we can construct and operate a space station about 1000 miles above the earth that can be made to revolve around the globe and from which we could launch attacks to any point on the earth.

It strains the imagination to the breaking point to believe that we could overcome the forces of gravity, the lack of air and the intense cold of outer space and build and operate anything in the nature of an artificial satellite that would be useful to us for war or any other purpose. Our men of science are smart, but not that smart.

Little Chips

By J. S. H.

With so many Caldwell farmers selling tobacco or tacking it to market, a poem, submitted by W. A. Mitchell, is appropriate:

I stripped my tobacco the other day,
Loaded it up and hauled it away.
I went through the rain, wind and sleet,
And pulled through mud that was belly deep.

My feet got wet and I frosted my toes,
I shook and shivered 'till I damn near froze,
But finally I got to the loose leaf floor,
I threw on the brakes and drove through the door.

I took off my best, the good and the bad,
And filled up about all the basket they had,
I had different lengths and different bodies and shades,
I had fourteen baskets and sixteen grades.

Then the buyer came by and pulled out a hand;
He graded it H and in X, Y and Z.
He jerked out a pencil and the fun began.
He graded it B and in C and in D;

He used all the letters in the alphabet,
If he'd had more letters he'd be grading yet.
But finally he gave me my check and weights,
And it looked like the map of the United States.

I thought I was rich 'till I got to the bank,
When they shelled out the cash my heart quickly sank.
For I couldn't pay interest, and I couldn't pay a debt,
If I owned anything, I'm owing it yet.

This tobacco was raised on Kentucky soil,
It cost the grower much sweat and toil.
Herbert Hoover is blamed for the prices and yet—
I doubt if Hoover ever smoked a cigarette.

Well, I bought a few groceries and stopped with some gents,
When I got home I had a dollar and fifty-five cents.
It sounds mighty bad and looks like a shame,
But what is the matter and who is to blame?

The grower is first with his graft and his crave,
He is using the market to dig his own grave.
The poolers are next, with their growls and kicks,
They are getting us in a heck of a fix.

When General MacArthur wrung the hearts of the nation last year with his magnificent performance before the Congress of the United States, he implied a promise to move to the side lines and stay there quietly.

For many years the Old Soldier had been making news, and had been much in the public eye. It is no secret that he yearned for and thought he deserved the Republican presidential nomination.

This old soldier, though, simply refuses to fade away, and it's time we tried to assay him in his proper perspective.

In the past more than 20 years General MacArthur has done great service for his country. So have millions of other men. General MacArthur has been amply rewarded for his services. He has been fed, clothed, housed, protected, sheltered, cherished, honored—and not infrequently worshipped—by the taxpayers who provided him his education, paid him a good salary during war and peace, and finally paid him a rather handsome $18,000 plus a year in retirement.

He has performed his services, and been paid for them. When we needed inspired leadership, when our nation was desperate for inspiration after the attack on Pearl Harbor, Douglas MacArthur provided it. He also made personal capital—achieved much personal publicity—out of it.

There may be those who quibble with President Truman's comment last week that any decent man, if he had a solution to the Korean war, would feel duty bound to report that solution to the Commander-in-Chief.

What are the mothers and wives of tens of thousands of GI's serving in Korea thinking today? Is MacArthur still a great popular hero? Is he still the great leader? Is he still the man who knows the way to peace?

If Douglas MacArthur has a genuine solution and wasn't just talking through his amply gold-braided hat when he said he had one, he has been derelict in his duty in not reporting it to his bosses, his employers—the people who keep him in handsome luxury on a most generous pension. He has been derelict in refusing to relate his solution to the taxpayers.

General MacArthur himself would not hesitate for a moment to deal swiftly with any such insubordination on his own staff.

The people who are paying it seems to me, are showing finite patience. But the G.I. can exhaust even our patience. We can only hope that a last-dying burst of glory brilliant sunset—and the Soldier's will, at last, finally away, at least from public

...may your holiday season be filled with the magical feeling called the Christmas spirit... the feeling that truly generates "good will to men."

Proper Gifts Add To Yule Joys Of Little Shut-Ins

(By David Taylor Marke)

Little shut-ins lives can be brightened considerably at Yule time with the proper gifts. Experts on child care agree that the important thing to remember is to get them the kinds of toys that provide quiet play, and a wide variety of interest. The child should be able to play by himself with easy-to-handle toys that provide imaginative play, and that are right for his age.

Perhaps we could do well to follow the suggestions and observations of Miss Claudia D. Gips, a registered nurse now teaching at Teachers College, Columbia University. Her opinions are based on research she did at the Lenox Hill Hospital in New York City with sick children confined to their beds and some able to get around.

Her research shows that children in the home of Rev. and Mrs. B. F. Bynum.

The Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian Church held its annual Christmas meeting in the home of Mrs. Byrd M. Guesst Thursday afternoon. Mrs. John Abnett, of Marion, entertained the group showing films of "Christmas Around the World." Mrs. Abnett, a visitor, gave the devotion. During the social hour refreshments were served to Mrs. John Abnett, Mrs. Florence Parr, Mrs. W. B. Conway, Mrs. Grace Loyd, Mrs. W. M. Young, Mrs. Cecil Brasher, Miss Imogene Wigginton. Visitors were Mrs. Gross Ferguson and Mrs. Sherdie DeBoe.

Rev. B. F. Bynum was a patient in the Mayfield hospital Monday for observation.

Mrs. C. T. Stone spent Sunday in Princeton as the guest of Mrs. S. S. Pruitt, who is seriously ill at her home there.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Young were in Evansville Friday on business.

Jimmy Landes and son, Mays, of Princeton, and Miss Imogene Wigginton were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Landes.

Miss Nancy Truitt, of Marion, spent Sunday as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Coy Moore.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Feeny Rice and son, Henry, of Gardena, Calif., were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Milroy and Mrs. Mattie Rice Monday night.

Tommy Walker, of the U. S. Army, who is spending his leave with his mother, Mrs. Gladys Walker, in Detroit, spent a few days here last week visiting relatives.

Mrs. W. M. Young spent Wednesday in Madisonville.

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Wigginton and baby daughter, Vicki Lynn, of Columbus and Ft. Benning, Ga., spent a few days the past week as guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Wigginton. They are enroute to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bill King in Lebanon, Ind.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Cannon and son, Davy, of Nashville, visited her mother, Mrs. Ambie Fuller, for a few days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Marshall, of Detroit, visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Henson, Saturday afternoon for a short time. Mr. and Mrs. Martin Feeny Rice and son, Henry, have returned to their home in Gardena, Calif.

loons were enjoyed by every age group. The great versatility of the balloon seemed especially appealing, she says, because children who were more active could bat the balloon to the ceiling while those in bed could dress it up with a little paste or paper to make it an old man, an aircraft or an animal. If the balloon is vivid in color it can serve as diversion for children with hospital-weary eyes. Children too ill to play can have balloons tied to their beds, where they can watch them in motion or touch them occasionally. Even when play is impossible it is possible for the child to derive comfort from having a toy by him, as though it represented an object from his own world.

Pull-toys come next in frequency of use, she says. "Perhaps they were so popular because the confined child needed activity and these toys gave some meaning to his trot around the ward. Pull-toys were used mainly by the 2-to-5-year-old group but were not scorned by the 6-to-8-year-olds.

Another group having great appeal are the Imaginary Play type, she reports. These include nurse and doctor kits, family of dolls, bathroom and living-room doll furniture, set of small wooden warships, telephones and wooden milk bottles in a rack. Little shut-ins display a constant and enthusiastic interest in the doctor and nurse kits especially. In the hospital, little patients who could walk about included bed patients in their play. Where a child could not undertake such stimulating play, the relation of doctor and patient would be played out with a doll.

The construction toys — large domino-like blocks and the set of blocks, train and track — as a group were next in popularity. They were used by all ages of children with equal enthusiasm, she says. These toys can lead to group play or, in the case of a child confined to bed in a home, to play with his parents.

Another set of toys that were popular without requiring sustained interest, were the manipulative toys, such as those that move in response to having their bases pressed, or have the ability to turn a doll's head or walk her. Puzzles are popular, also. For infants still confined to their cribs, says Miss Gips, it was found that baby crib toys type, she reports. These include nurse and doctor kits, family of dolls, bathroom and living-room doll furniture, set of small wood-

NOTICE TAXPAYERS

Wednesday, December 31, is the last day on which 1952 property taxes may be paid without penalty.

The law provides that taxes become delinquent on January 1. The penalty which will apply to taxes paid between January 1 and through January 31 is two per cent.

Since February 1 falls on Sunday, the penalty will not increase until Monday, February 2. Then, the penalty increases from two per cent to six per cent. For example, John Doe's tax bill is $10. If paid between January 1 and January 31, the penalty will be 20 cents, making a total payment $10.20. But if John Doe waits until February 2 or after, his penalty will be 60 cents, making a total of $10.60 which he must pay.

Of course, if the bill is not paid before the tax claim is advertised for sale, other severe penalties are added.

Glover J. Lewis, sheriff of Caldwell County, says he hopes all taxpayers will pay their bills this week and avoid the penalty.

Kentucky Folklore

"Speedwell And Fidelity"

By Gordon Wilson, Ph. D. (Western State College)

Just today I finished reading SPEEDWELL SKETCHES, a folksy book by Professor Lawrence Edwards of the English Department of the University of Tennessee. It is a series of short stories, essays, and sketches on the life in the mountain county of Claiborne, the Tennessee county that borders our Whitley and Bell counties.

Professor Edwards was reared in a little town, actually named Speedwell, away off the beaten path in those days but now on a fairly big road north of Norris Lake that I have driven over. He delights in the quaintness of his boyhood home and the philosophy that he grew up with. His characters are genuine folk characters, none of this tinsel stuff that some so-called folklorists write about to attract people in big cities.

There is an honesty about his work that I commend highly, for I wish more people would see folk life steadily and see it whole, as Matthew Arnold said, that poets should see life in general. Too often we get Dog Patch ideas about remote people, largely because only those who use the Dog Patch approach to folk life get the attention. Hats off to the honest writer who dares to tell the truth, not a refurbished truth or a degenerate truth!

As I read the little book, I was always back at Fidelity, my little Speedwell. I know that Professor Edwards writes honestly, because you could take most of his essays, transfer them to my Fidelity, and then you would have a hard time finding out whether they were of my little village or his. One of the interesting things about the book is that Edwards is young enough to be my son, as he was born the year I taught my first school; and yet his rearing and mine seemed to have been practically identical. I had no mountains to climb, but out steep low hills around Fidelity could make a fellow pant pretty heavily when he ran up one of them or tried to.

His county is away at the other end of things from mine, but the way to bring up youngsters must have been patented long before his father and mine had such boys as we to raise. Hoeing in the newground; bringing in chips and logs from the woodpile, cutting endless millions of sassafras sprouts, riding bareback to the creek to water the stock, taking a basket of eggs to the store to exchange them for sugar and coffee—what didn't we have in common? And the very country school he attended must have been the one at Fidelity, especially on Friday afternoons, with spelling matches and question boxes and saying pieces. He does not say whether all his distinctive

Trees And Plants May Need Water This Winter

Due to the unusually dry summer, fall and early winter, thousands of young trees, shrubs and evergreens will die this winter unless they are given water, warns N. R. Elliott, horticulturist at the University of Kentucky. Where a supply of water is available, he recommends that from six to 10 gallons per plant should be applied during December. Where water is scarce, two to three gallons once a week will help build up a reserve of moisture.

Evergreen trees should continue to be watered at least once a month during January, February and March, the watering being done when the temperature is above freezing, Mr. Elliott advised.

Balloons, sent up as high as 100,000 feet to study cosmic rays, often are reported as flying saucers.

BIKE RIDING PROF IS 90: This is David L. Earnest, the bicycle riding professor of the University of Georgia, who celebrated his 90th birthday at Athens, Ga., last week. Prof. Earnest, who says he is retired but not tired, figures you don't get old as long as you think you're young—and he's thoroughly convinced of his youth. In addition to daily rides on his bike, he gets in a little extra exercise by touching the floor with the palms of his hands. His first connection with the University was in 1877. He retired in 1950. Trotting Makes Some Big Gains

(By Frank Eck)

New York — Harness racing, America's fastest growing sport, continued to show tremendous gains at the turn-stiles and mutual windows during its greatest season.

In the 11 states which permit pari-mutuel wagering new betting records were set. A total of $362,809,265 went into the machines. This figure represents a 19.34 increase over the high set the previous year. States received $20,150,788 from the sport. The attendance totalled 7,903,590, a jump of 9.62 per cent over 1951. Neither figure includes the estimated 8,800,000 fans who attended 450 county fair tracks.

Yonkers Raceway became the first harness track to top the million dollar mark in average handle for 86 nights of racing. Roosevelt Raceway, pioneer of the nocturnal sport, showed a slight drop in attendance but an increase in wagering which totalled $95,338,401 for 108 nights.

New York State received $14,390,049 in revenue from the wagering at its harness tracks. The handle was 18.18 per cent above 1951 and the attendance in the state showed a 3.38 percentage gain.

William H. Cane's Good Time, a 6-year-old bay pacer, became the greatest money winning harness horse in history. Naturally, he's the harness horse of the year. He won 23 of 33 starts during the year in which he earned a record $110,299.10. He ran his earnings to $318,792.86, a luscious figure which is one of the main items that has attracted new owners to the sport. Proximity, a trotter, had held the money record with a bankroll of $252,929. Good Time surpassed that figure back in July.

Good Time, victor in 78 races out of 110 starts in five years, now stands at stud at Castleton Farm, Lexington, Ky. In all but three of his races, veteran trainer-driver Frank Ervin handled the reins on the son of Hal Dale — On Time by Volomite.

Good Times' chief victory came in the $25,000 invitation National Pacing Derby at Roosevelt Raceway. He won by two and a half lengths.

Sharp Note, owned by C. W. Clark of Dearborn, Mich., won $47,226.64 by taking the Hambletonian. The bay son of Phonograph picked up another $28,299.55 by taking the Kentucky Futurity. He became the first horse to win both events. In taking the Hambletonian, Sharp Note's driver, El Shively, became the oldest reinsman to win the event. "I'm too old to be thrilled," said Shively after the race. He's 74.

Meadow Rice, owned by W. G. Reynolds of Louisville, Ky., won $30,213.66 by taking the Little Brown Jug while Dumbur Bostwicks 10-year-old Chris Spencer

Local Tax Rates Listed In Revenue Booklet

A compilation of local property tax rates for each county and taxing district has been issued by the Research Division, Department of Revenue.

The booklet "Kentucky Property Tax Rates, 1952" gives the classes of property subject to tax and the rate for each class levied by each taxing district. Special taxes such as drainage areas, library levy and school building taxes are shown.

The publication shows a Wolfe with the highest county tax rate at $1.15; Hickman with the highest city rate, $1.85, and Paducah the highest school district rate, $2.07.

Copies of the booklet may be had on request to the Research Division in Frankfort.

showed a lot of running taking the $50,000 Roosevelt Two-Mile Trot and the $25,000 Gotham Trot. Chris was the horse that went swimming in Lake Champlain as a cure for ailing legs.

Leonard J. Buck of Far Hills, N. J., and Sol Camp of Shafter, Calif., both shelled out more than $100,000 for harness horses during the year. But C. M. Saunders of Toledo, O., paid the top price of $40,000 for the yearling Smathaway, a full brother of the trotter Bangaway.

Levi Harner of Bloomsburg, Pa., led the drivers with 129 winners while William A. Haughton of Fultonville, N. Y., won the most money—$311,728.45.

Caldwell County 4-H Club Holds Meeting

The Caldwell County 4-H Club met Wednesday, December 3, with Miss Wilma Vandiver and Mr. Levi Oliver.

Loretta Howton, vice-president, called the meeting to order. Freida Jewell, secretary, read the minutes of the last meeting.

The program included "How Champions Are Made", by Sue Dillingham; "The Beef Project Champion", by Jackie Barnes; "1952 Champion Gardener", by Shirley Hobby; "Our New Clothing Champion", by Freida Jewell; "Farm Labor and Junior Leadership", by David Crenshaw; "The New Poultry Winner", by Nata Ethridge, and "Others Are Champions Too", by Ida Lou Lamb.

After the program, Miss Vandiver gave a talk on electricity and led the group in a game. New record books were given out for the next year.

The meeting was adjourned to meet again on January 3, 1953.

Dorroh, at six o'clock Saturday, December 13, at the First Baptist Church, Rev. H. G. M. Hatler performed the double ring ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Keith Rogers were the only attendants.

The bride wore a navy blue suit with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. Mrs. Rogers wore a dark blue suit with black accessories and a lavender orchid corsage.

Mrs. Dorroh is a graduate of Butler High School and is presently employed with the Arnold Ligon Truck Line.

Mr. Dorroh is a graduate of Fredonia High School. He has recently returned from Germany where he served with the U. S. Medical Corps.

The couple left immediately for a short wedding trip after which they will be at home at 204 N. Cave street, Princeton.

Mrs. Mary Hewlett is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Winfred Gibson, and Mr. Gibson, at Frankfort.

"O Come, All Ye Faithful"
Not many events in history have left their imprint upon the world for centuries. Man has a way of putting behind him the past—forgetting his triumphs, overcoming his defeats—as he faces new challenges in a changing world.
But at Christmas we remember an event of two thousand years ago. Not one of the momentous crises of military or political history! Just the birth of a child... in a stable... in a sleeping town... far away!
Why should such an event, so long ago, still set the world to singing?
It can only be because that event, unlike any other in the world's long history, affected everyone. What happened in Bethlehem twenty centuries ago has never stopped changing people's lives from that day until this!
Because that first Christmas has given you deeper happiness and richer hope—come, with all the faithful, to worship the Lord.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) Which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.
